Maintaining excellence is one of the greatest challenges organizations face. The Shingo Executive Leadership Program equips senior leaders with the tools needed to build sustainable systems that deliver results.

Grounded in the Shingo Model, this immersive three-day experience connects principles to systems and behaviors, transforming leadership and organizational operations.

Through engaging discussions, peer collaboration, and hands-on application, participants will:

- Gain a deeper understanding of the principles and systems that drive lasting excellence.
- Explore real-world examples of leadership transformation and system redesign.
- Build a trusted network of executives committed to continuous improvement and cultural sustainability.

A benchmarking visit to Jabil Bray will offer insights into sustaining excellence while allowing participants to share challenges and solutions with other leaders committed to leading with principle and building cultures of excellence.

The Shingo Executive Leadership Program provides leaders with practical methods to strengthen decision-making skills, cultivate teamwork, and align organizational purpose with individual purpose. Through systems thinking and strategic deployment, executives will be equipped to drive sustainable, enterprise-wide excellence.

Please note that each participating organization should have at least two attendees; to drive effective transformation, at least one should have P&L responsibility, as individual enthusiasm alone is insufficient.
